OUR PROMISE

We work in this profession to maintain the health and welfare of animals and support the experience of the human animal bond in the wider community. This fundamental ethic which we live by is embodied in the nature of our work with juvenile animals and their carers. If you want patients that are easy to work with and clients that are on your side when their pets are sick, then start off on the right foot with an excellent training program to support everyone involved. This workshop will make your life better. We promise.

EDUCATORS

DR TRACEY HENDERSON

Tracey graduated from Murdoch University in 2000, and has worked at Willunga Veterinary Services since as a mixed practice vet. After some time in the UK she returned to SA as a part-time small animal veterinarian. Tracey designed and started the Puppy Preschool® classes (based on Dr Kersti Seksel's format) in 2001 and has incorporated and changed the format as new information has become available. In 2004 Tracey completed a post graduate course in animal behaviour at Sydney University and offers exclusive support to troubled clients and their animals as they need it. In 2008 Tracey became a member of the Australian College of Veterinary Scientists in Veterinary Behaviour by examination. Tracey and Tracy now advise large companies that engage with animals regularly on body language and behaviour to reduce the incidence of injury.

TRACY BAGHE

Tracy started working at the RSPCA Lonsdale shelter in 2002 and was involved in behavioural assessments of adopted dogs, which involved many hours of hands on training. During her time at the RSPCA Tracy developed a strong passion to also help the dogs on the 'other side' and to try and prevent them from ending up at the shelter. Tracy started to work alongside Tracey Henderson with behavioural consultations in 2008. And is also a veterinary nurse at Willunga Veterinary Services, in SA. In 2010 Tracy received her Certificate 4 in Companion animal training and became a nationally accredited Delta Dog Behaviour Trainer. Tracy's enthusiasm for education and training pets is infectious.
